

— Key findings —
Operator's use of technology when managing allergens

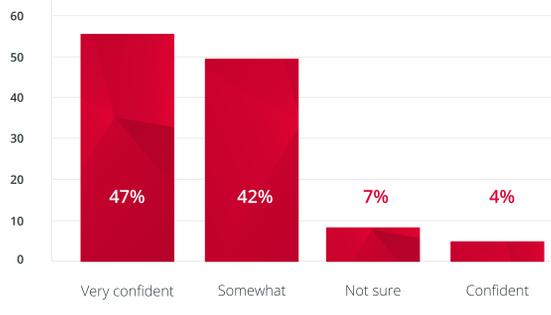

Percentage of businesses using technology to manage allergens

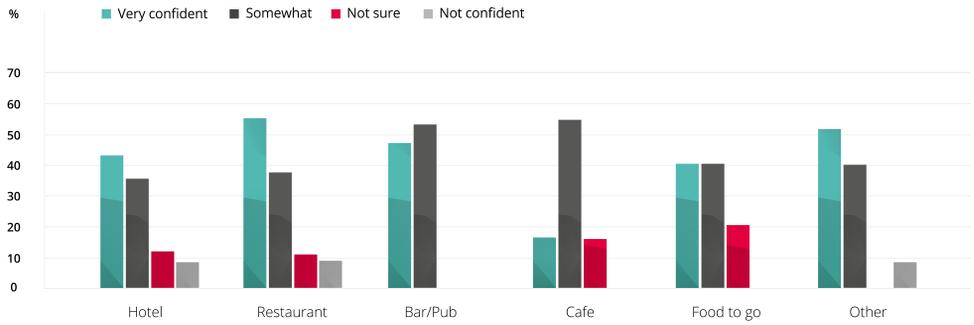

1/5 of survey respondents don't know the penalty for failing to give accurate information about allergens to customers

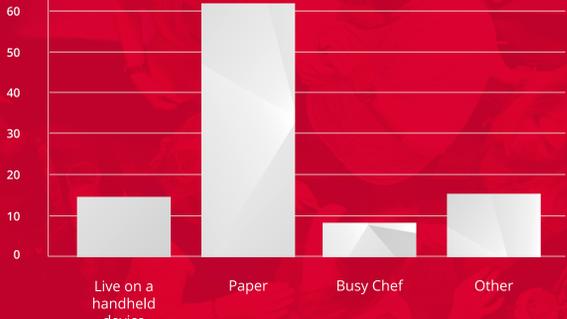

Are you / or your employees confident that you are communicating accurate allergen information to customers?

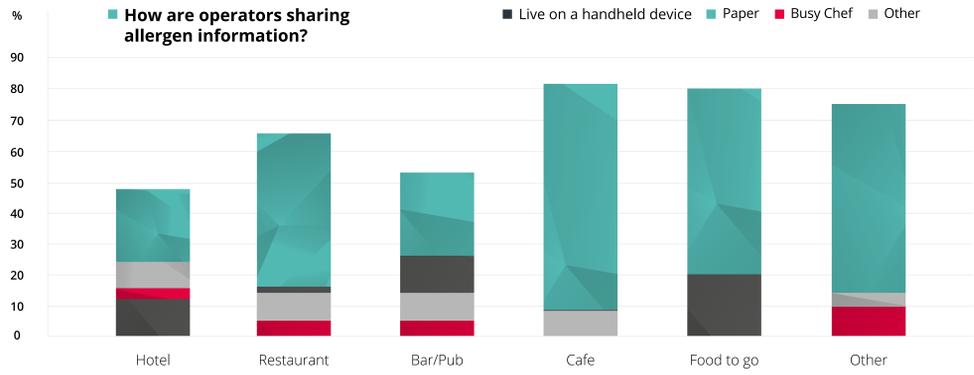

Pubs and bars are the most confident sector when it comes to providing accurate allergen information

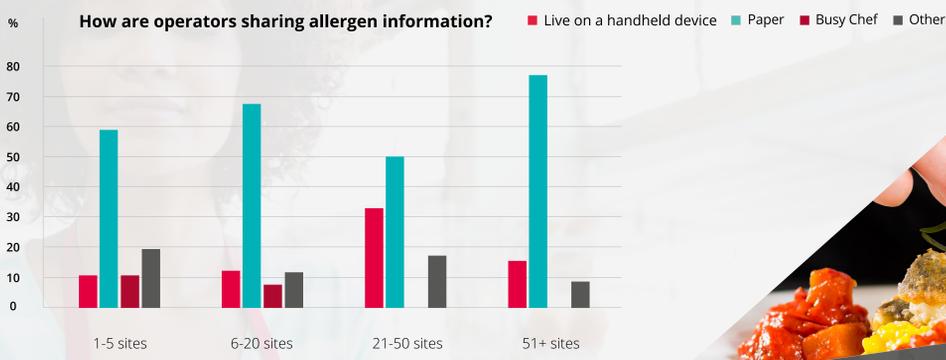

How are operators sharing allergen information?

How are operators sharing allergen information?

How are operators sharing allergen information?

"This is the best resource available to you, to ensure you stay at the cutting edge and continue to maximise your opportunities."

Kate Nicholls, CEO UKHospitality

Read the full report