Government paid
parental leave?

Paid parental leave (paid leave type P)

All types of paid parental leave must now be reported separately.

Only pre-sacrifice amounts that are not classified as OTE according to the Superannuation Guarantee Act 1992 (SGAA) should be included as paid parental leave. Some industrial instruments may require super to be paid on these amounts.

If you are making a back payment or arrears payment, it may be included as paid parental leave.

The following table outlines some examples of what should and shouldn't be included in Paid parental leave.

(not a question)
Please wish me luck. I have completed the STP2 system wizard setup and plan to send first STP2 report today. (eep)
I am hoping for these sessions simply confirm i set it up correctly.

I have seen your green tick come up in our reporting – well done!

I think from a previous session it was suggested to add a  against unused addition and deduction codes that are no longer in use. That way, they still appear on historical reports but someone new to the system will know code is not in use and not reporting STP2.

Yes. This is a practical way to stop another user unwittingly using an obsolete allowance. All additions will need to be assigned an STP2 category, regardless of if they are being currently used or not.

Sorry not  against code,  against code description are all the unpaid leaves to be classified as exclude from STP reporting group

Unpaid leave can be excluded from STP2 reporting in novated leases, the after-tax deduction, should this go to exclude from STP?

We asked this one on the ATO community: Are you asking about the employee contribution to reduce the employer's FBT liability payable on a salary sacrifice - other component, such as for a Novated Lease? Yes, employee contributions on FBT are post-tax only. If it is for a vehicle, then the FBT - employer guide Chapter 7 Car Fringe Benefits S7.4 Statutory Formula Method, subheading "Determining the employee contribution" states:
an amount paid directly to you by the employee for use of the car - the employee contribution must be made from the employee's after-tax income and is included in your assessable income

The employee post-tax deductions to reduce their employers FBT liability is NOT one of the 4 only reportable post-tax deductions:

1. Fees
2. Workplace Giving
3. Child Support Deductions (optional)
4. Child Support Garnishees (optional)

So, NO, not reportable.

Where is the STP2 checklist?	Do you mean the payroll checklist? If so, you will find a link to it in the release notes.
We roll some allowances up into our hourly rate (Leave loading, dirty work and boots) do these need to be separated out? Also annualised salaries that have OT included does this need to be separated?	Yes. The allowances need to be reported separately as part of the disaggregation of gross . Yes, annualised salaries need to have the overtime separated out and reported separately.
All deductions after tax should be excluded from STP reporting I would have thought.	There are 2 exceptions to this,
The Termination of Leave is within the Pay Components!	There are a stack of system defined components, under the Pay Components node in MicrOpay, including a raft of termination components for things like ETPs, unused annual and sick leave, etc. Because they are system components, the field values, including STP Reporting Group and STP Reporting Sub Group are assigned by MicrOpay and cannot be changed. The only exception is the OTE checkbox, it was automatically ticked or unticked on upgrade to 9.
We give some of our employees a Phone allowance (towards mobile phone calls). It is not a reimbursement – just an allowance. I have set up the after tax allowance under “Allowance Item”, subgroup “Other Allowance”. Is the code then “other” or “non deductible” Not sure where to allocate this	Reading the ATO documentation, if they need the phone for work, then it may be considered as per the below Employees needing to supply something to do their work There are many different types of allowance which are paid for the purpose of compensating an employee for the costs of supplying and maintaining tools and equipment required for their work. When working out how to report in STP about these allowances, consider these questions: <ol style="list-style-type: none"> 1. Is the amount you are paying a reimbursement for the cost of the tools or equipment? <ul style="list-style-type: none"> > Yes – you do not need to report this reimbursement through STP. > No – continue to the next question. 2. Are the tools or equipment used for business purposes? <ul style="list-style-type: none"> > Yes – report as tool allowances (allowance type TD). > No – go to expenses that are not incurred for business purposes.

I asked the question on the phone allowance. Our employees are not on an award. Its just a allowance for some of out HR Recruiters to help with mobile calls. I dont think its a task allowance as such. Thank you :)	Please see the above response.

Deduction - Child Support and Garnishee - I have already set up as Deduction Items in STP2 Reporting	STP2 reporting does have the option of reporting to the child support agencies directly. At this stage Micropay has opted not to include this in STP2 until some of the finer details in the file transmission protocols are resolved. We may do additional work to cover off this aspect of STP2 in the future.

Employee wants to pay more PAYG tax with each pay so we have a Extra Tax item. How to report it in STP2? if it is still PAYGW in STP2 Reporting Group?	I have not been able to find a specific reference to additional tax being paid voluntarily. So yes, I would categorise it as PAYGW
How do we correct 'Transactions with invalid leave reasons' in Status of STP2 setup	You will need to contact the help desk for assistance with this one.
Hi, I have Purchased Leave deduction, what STP2 group it would be?	It will depend on whether the leave is purchased under an annualised salary arrangement, salary sacrifice arrangement or is an after-tax deduction., e.g. if an after tax deduction it is unlikely that you will need to report it via STP2, while amounts associated with salary sacrifice arrangements do need to be reported. Please contact the ATO for guidance regarding your circumstances.

We have completed the allocations for STP2 for all of our existing adds and ded. But we have an STP2 Webinars checklist that says Create new Additions and Deductions. How do we know if we need particular new codes?	Once STP2 is activated, any new adds/deds you add in the future, you will add the appropriate STP2 category to them, at the time of adding the add/ded.
I am ready for STP2, Do I just click the "unable STP2"	Yes, press ENABLE STP2
Any new additions/deduction s after you have unable stp2, I can just add it normally and I don't need to go to the wizard	Yes that's correct: in each maintenance screen there's an STP Reporting tab that contains the options which need to be selected for STP 2 Reporting. Remember to set this up as part of setting up any new additions / deductions
Morning All. We have expat staff who are AU resident for tax purposes. We run a shadow payroll in MicrOpay to calculate (and pay over) their PAYG to the ATO. Do we need to break their shadow payroll into the components of	https://www.ato.gov.au/individuals/income-and-deductions/income-you-must-declare/foreign-and-worldwide-income/

their respective offshore/shadow portion (bonus, family allowance etc)
Where do we find all the recorded sessions?	https://www.theaccessgroup.com/en-au/payroll/resources/micropay-single-touch-payroll-phase-2-changes/ . Go right to the bottom on the page. Third box on the right.
Once STP 2 is enabled, shouldn't report on STP 1. Is that right?	Once your STP2 is enabled, your next STP report will be in the STP2 format.
if the item is addition before tax, and currently we don't use it, may I choose "Exclude from STP Reporting"?	I don't believe that you can exclude an addition before tax from STP2 reporting. We recommend mapping all additions before tax, even those no longer being used. This protects you, if they get used in the future accidentally.
Hello, I have a question - what would be the stp2 reporting group and sub group for Jury duty payment? Hi, the micropay consultant that we had to assist us with the STP2 setup, we placed phone allowance under Allowance Items - KN(Task Allowance). thank you.	It will depend what specifically the phone allowance is for and if it is mentioned in your award. For example, it might be considered a tool of the trade or a tool required for a task. Or it might be a reimbursement. I am sure they will have asked you questions as to why it is paid to come to that conclusion.
Company gives out service award - I	I would question if this was considered a bonus type payment?

have set up an addition after tax which does not attract super but it's taxed. Thank you

Bonuses and commissions

You may pay some employees bonus and commission payments to reward their performance, service or for meeting a specific goal. These are typically paid as a lump sum.

Only pre-sacrifice amounts that are classified as OTE should be included as bonuses and commissions.

If you are making a back payment or arrears payment, it may be included as bonuses and commissions.

The following table outlines some examples of what should and shouldn't be included in Bonuses and commissions.

In the Status column I have an incomplete item (Transactions with invalid Leave Reasons-see IQ LVERSNTRN) which I have run and the leave reason is showing a green tick under the Leave Reason tab.	You will need to contact our support team for them to take a look at this issue specific to your data.

Union fees?	Deduction type F Union and professional association fees (deduction type F) You should only report union fees and professional association fees deducted from payroll as Deduction type F. No other post-tax deductions can be reported as Deduction type F.
We have a Centrelink Deduction Before Tax, but it is not child Support. How should we manage this one?	There is not much information available from the ATO on this scenario, you may need to contact them directly for guidance. In MicroPay, deductions can be classified as Workplace Giving, Fees or Gross. You may need advice from the ATO as to whether or not this deduction should be included in the employee's Gross.

we also have the works compensation make up pay to make sure our staff are paid the same their normal rate even when they are in jury duty leave, how do I allocate this makeup payment?

From the ATO STP2 Reporting guidelines

The following table outlines some examples of what should and shouldn't be included in Workers' compensation.

Workers' compensation reporting examples

Include	Don't include
<ul style="list-style-type: none"> > payments for any approved (or anticipated approval of) workers' compensation absence paid by the employer to the employee > top-up payments made by the employer > workers' compensation payments made after termination <ul style="list-style-type: none"> – workers' compensation payments may be required to continue to be paid, even after the employee is terminated, in accordance with insurer requirements – although no longer technically an employee absence, these payments should be reported as workers' compensation (paid leave type W) 	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> > payments to employees on workers' compensation who are at work performing duties – this payment must be reported as gross > payments to employees under an income protection or salary continuance insurance policy - this is reported as other paid leave (paid leave type O)

In MicrOpay, workers compensation payments are set up as STP Reporting Group Paid Leave and Reporting Subgroup W (Workers' Compensation)

How do we categorise "repayment" in the STP2 reporting?

By repayment, are you referring to 'reimbursement'? The ATO has this to say about reimbursements in the STP2 Employer reporting guidelines

Identify whether the amount is a reportable allowance

Generally, allowances are reportable through STP. There are some things which you may know as allowances which don't need to be reported through STP because:

- > they are not allowances, or
- > there are special rules about reporting them.

To work out whether you need to report allowances you've paid, consider these questions:

- > Are you paying an amount to your employee?
 - STP is reporting about payments that you make. If you are not paying an amount, there's nothing to report through STP.
 - However, if you are providing a fringe benefit, you may need to consider your fringe benefits tax (FBT) obligations and you may need to include reportable fringe benefits in your STP reporting.
- > Is the amount you're paying your employee, reimbursing an expense that can be verified by receipts?
 - There's a difference between allowances and reimbursements. Reimbursements typically compensate an employee exactly for an expense they have incurred on your behalf and the recipient generally needs to verify that they did incur that expense.
 - Reimbursements should not be reported through STP.

We have car parking fee deducted after tax. Is it as deduction items>Fee in STP group?	Deductions The reporting of deductions does not change under STP Phase 2. There are 2 deduction types you can report: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> > union and professional association fees (deduction type F) > workplace giving (deduction type W). Union and professional association fees (deduction type F) You should only report union fees and professional association fees deducted from payroll as Deduction type F. No other post-tax deductions can be reported as Deduction type F. Workplace giving (deduction type W) When an employee has asked you to collect money from their pay to donate, you may have set it up as a: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> > salary sacrifice arrangement > workplace giving deduction. You should only report workplace giving deductions as deduction type W. Don't include salary sacrifice contributions to a charity. These are reported as Salary Sacrifice Type O (other employee benefits). https://www.ato.gov.au/Business/Single-Touch-Payroll/In-detail/Single-Touch-Payroll-Phase-2-employer-reporting-guidelines/?page=5#Deductions
We have salary packaging via a third party with deduction code before tax. Is this counted as Salary Sacrifice > Other Employee Benefit?	I have found this ATO example: Example: salary sacrifice with a third-party provider Each fortnightly payday, one of Kim's employees sacrifices $150 from their salary. Kim uses a third-party provider to manage salary sacrifice for her employees, and each fortnight she sends $150 to her chosen provider to be applied in accordance with the instructions provided by the employee. When Kim sends the sacrificed amount to the third-party provider, she does not know how her employee has instructed them to apply the amount. Kim chooses to use the ATO's concessional approach, so she includes the sacrificed $150 as Salary sacrifice type O in her STP reporting. At the end of each quarter, the third-party provider sends Kim a report showing how the amounts sacrificed by her employee have been applied. Kim uses this report to identify that from each of the 6 fortnightly pays during the quarter, her employee sacrificed $50 to super and $100 to other benefits. Kim lodges an update event to correct her STP reporting by increasing the YTD amount reported at salary sacrifice type S by $300 and reducing the YTD amount reported at Salary sacrifice type O by $300 so that it shows the correct amounts.

	Kim also reviews her super guarantee records to ensure she has paid enough for this employee for the quarter. At the end of the financial year, Kim uses the reports her third-party provider has sent her to make sure that she has reported correct amounts as Salary sacrifice type S and Salary sacrifice type O before she finalises.
Also, we have salary package deduction after tax. Is it "exclude from STP reporting"?	Depends on what the deduction is for. If it is for Workplace Giving or Fees [for example an association membership/ union] then yes it should be reported.
Should Employee repayment "exclude from STP reporting" ?	Without knowing what the repayment is for – assuming it is not payroll related – as a deduction after tax, it could be excluded from STP2 reporting
